

Occult Teachings

The “white-hole event” seen by humans is not just energy erupting outward but a dilation of a cosmic pupil. As spacetime thins, the true essence of `The Others` begins to seep through, altering not just the sky but the very fabric of consciousness, perception, and causality.

Initial perimeter cults (T12) comprise isolated pilgrims ignorant of humanity's gate network, diaspora coalitions, or Sol Cascade beam (T11-T14). Confined to local horrors—hybrid laborers and sunken city effluent—they etch parochial reliefs depicting servitor forging as immediate apocalypse, devoid of interstellar context. The Earth's atmospheric stripping (T14) eradicates these witnesses entirely, extinguishing oral traditions and leaving only scattered relics: crude polyhedra carvings and contaminated biomass flotsam.

Mythic Distortion Offworld

Surviving fragments reach diaspora worlds via evacuee trauma imprints or relic debris, stripped of temporal anchors. Effluent-encoded visions—neural echoes of recent biotech (T8-T10)—manifest as “primordial histories,” recasting 200kya events as pre-human epochs. Chants degrade into impotent symbols: spiraling servitor forms symbolizing “eternal remake,” promising insight but delivering shared delusion.

Far-Future Residue

Post-Local Void (T17), cults inherit ultra-filtered lore—cyclopean slave myths predating stars—validated solely by artifact activation. Original ignorance ensures no “big picture” power leaks; teachings lure seekers to relics, where physics delivers sanity-testing proof amid fabricated antiquity.

Science as Ritual

Reinterpreting `The Others` as entities whose existence lies beyond human cognition transforms the timeline from a scientific chronicle into a cosmic horror narrative told through physics. The mechanisms of M-theory and brane cosmology become a modern language for describing Lovecraftian contact, where scientific laws remain intact but their consequences manifest as incomprehensible phenomena.

T?–T?: The Forbidden Aperture

Humanity's discovery of higher dimensions becomes an epistemic trespass — we don't just uncover new physics, we accidentally touch upon something alien.

T?–T?: The Summoning by Geometry

Creating gates and feedback loops no longer reads as engineering but as ritualized resonance. Each gate is a “chant” in spacetime curvature, a signal that The Others can “hear.” Energy optimization becomes an act of amplifying the call to these entities.

T?–T?: The Gravitational Call and Awakening

Gravitational waves are no longer mere byproducts; they are voices resonating through the bulk. When The Others detect them, it's a moment of awakening—as if a word from an ancient text had finally been spoken, summoning something long dormant.

T?: Revelation From Outside

The “white-hole event” seen by humans is not just energy erupting outward but a dilation of a cosmic pupil. As spacetime thins, the true essence of The Others begins to seep through, altering not just the sky but the very fabric of consciousness, perception, and causality.
